Is screen time affecting your child's sleep?

"88% said screen time had a negative impact on their sleep"

(Source: Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health.)

The Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health (RCPC) have recently published a guide which reviews the existing research on screen time usage by children. As a result of this research they have published a number of recommendations. One of those recommendations is around screen use before bed time.

"Does screen use interfere with sleep?"

Even quite modest sleep deprivation can interfere with mental and physical health, educational success and family relations. It is important, therefore, that screens do not interfere with a good bedtime routine, either for children or adults, and we would adopt the expert recommendation that screens are avoided for an hour before the planned bedtime.

"Protect sleep"

Most experts advise that children are not exposed to screens for an hour before bed, so that their brains have time to wind down for sleep without the stimulation from the light of the screen (and the content being viewed). Some manufacturers have introduced 'night-modes' which emit less blue light, but there is no evidence that these are effective so we do not think that this makes screen use before bed 'OK'."

Most popular online games include the ability to chat with others, likely strangers. We've looked at 3 of the most popular games to show you how to disable chat (where possible). If you don't want to turn chat off then we recommend children play without a headset and in a room where you can hear their conversations. As always, ensure your children know how to report players and they know that they should also talk to you or a trusted adult if anything concerns them.

Fortnite (PEGI rating 12+)

Fortnite contains voice and text chat systems. You can turn the voice chat off but not the text chat. To turn chat off, go to Settings,

Minecraft (PEGI rating 7+)

In multiplayer mode children can chat with other people. To turn chat off, click on 'options', select multiplayer settings and click on commands only.

Roblox (PEGI rating 7+)
